KIND WORDS.

Kind words do not cost much. They are quickly spoken. They do not blister the tongue that speaks them. They never have to be repented of. They do not keep us awake until midnight. They are easy to scatter them. And they do so much good. They do so much good to the person from whose lips they fall. Kind words will soften the soul. They will smooth the rough places in our natures. Care to say kindly things will drill our natures in kindness. It will help pull up all the root of passion. It will give us a spirit of self control. It will make the conscience delicate, and the disposition gentle.

A woman can not make a habit of speaking kind words without augmenting her own gracious temper. But better still be their influence upon others. If cold words freeze people, and hot words scorch them, and bitter words madden them, so will kind words reproduce them, and smooth and quiet and comfort the hearer. They make all the better elements of one's nature come shining to the surface. They conquer her stubbornness. They cause an appreciation of better things. Let us say the kindly word. No one can tell how many burdened hearts may be relieved, how many discouraged souls may be inspired. Say it every day to the beggar that knocks at your door, to the one who disturbs you while you are busy, asking for work; to the one who has almost lost hope; to all. Remember, kind words can never die.—Fulton Telegraph.

Books

There has been issued by The Public Publishing Company, First National Bank Building, Chicago, the first edition of a descriptive catalogue of the books it publishes and sells. This attractive pamphlet, with index to titles and authors, lists a remarkably interesting collection of books. They are books about which every man and woman who wishes to come in touch with the spirit of democracy in the fundamental sense of that word, or desires real political and economic freedom, will be glad to know.

The catalogue describes, with concise comment, the works of Henry George, often called the economic torch-bearer and pathfinder of democracy, and books about him and his work; the works of Tolstoy, that marvelous novelist, humanitarian philosopher and unique Christian, now recognized as first among living writers and the foremost citizen of the world, and books about him; the writings of Walt Whitman, the great American poet of the democratic spirit; of Henry George, Jr., of Louis F. Post, including back volumes of his weekly review, "The Public"; of Ernest Crosby, Bolton Hall, Henry Demarest Lloyd, John P. Altgeld, Clarence S. Darrow, Thomas E. Watson, Prof. Frank Parsons, Edwin Markham, Lawson Purdy, William Jennings Bryan and others. There are books about Thomas Jefferson, his life and writings; about democracy, about government, both national and city; about taxation, about public ownership and operation of public utilities; about municipal corruption, and about trusts and monopolies, including the Standard Oil Company. There are novels and romances, biographies, histories, poems, essays, sketches, addresses, letters, treatises, and other kinds of books, every one of the present-day importance and interest. And all these books are lucidly described in the catalogue.

The Public Publishing Company is devoted entirely to the promulgation of the most important and inspiring literature relating to that real or fundamental democracy on which the welfare and progress of humanity depend.

This catalogue will be sent to any address on request accompanied by a two-cent stamp.

AMERICA'S GREATEST WEEKLY

TOLEDO BLADE,
Toledo, Ohio.

The Best Known Newspaper in the United States.
Circulation 185,000,
Popular in Every State.

THE TOLEDO BLADE is now installed in its new building, with a modern plant and equipment, and facilities equal to any publication between New York and Chicago. It is the only Weekly newspaper edited expressly for every State and Territory. The News of the World so arranged that busy people can more easily comprehend, than by reading cumbersome columns of dailies. All current topics made plain in each issue by special editorial matter written from inception down to date. The only paper published especially for people who do or do not read daily newspapers, and yet thirst for plain facts. That this kind of a newspaper is popular, is proven by the fact that the Weekly Blade now has over 185,000 yearly subscribers, and is circulated in all parts of the U. S. In addition to the news, the Blade publishes short and serial stories, and many departments of matter suited to every member of the family. Only one dollar a year.

RURAL MAIL.

Postmaster Patton has received the following instructions from the Department, regarding numbering Rural Mail Boxes

Postmasters at the respective distributing offices are hereby directed to instruct carriers of all rural routes to review the Rural Mail Boxes in use on their routes in the interval between the receipt of this order to September 30, 1905, and report which of them conform to the regulation and are thus entitled to designative numbers.

No non-weather proof or otherwise unfit receptacles for mail shall be numbered; all such must be replaced with regulation approved boxes by the owners or no numbers will be assigned.

Service will not be withdrawn, however, from any box now being served, until such withdrawal is expressly ordered by the Department from Washington.

The Numbering of Boxes will commence with 1 and continue until all boxes that are entitled to service on the route shall be numbered.

As soon as possible after completing the assignment of box numbers on a route the postmaster will furnish each box owner with official number of his box and request that this number be at once legibly and durably inscribed in a conspicuous place on the out side of the box

Any instructions issued by this office conflicting with this order are hereby revoked.

The Cosmopolitan announces a series of tales by the "funniest of all story tellers"—W. W. Jacobs. If the others are as good as "Four Pigeons" in the October issue, there is no doubt that Mr. Jacobs deserves that title. Nothing that we have read in a long time has made us laugh more heartily. The situations are ludicrous in the extreme, as are the illustrations by Will Owen, the famous English caricaturist.

Miss Lue Ament came in from Oakdale, Ill., to spend a few days with friends here. She was enroute to Hope, Ark., to visit her sisters.
